One gentleman holds consents from owners of about two hundred lots for the use of their property on reasonable terms, conditioned only on the use of the asylum grounds, which they insist must be had to make the Fair a streems.

Dr. Peter A. Callan offers the use of his lot on the corner of Riverside avenue and One Hundred and Bixteenth street, at the Committee's own terms.

Dr. Peter A. Cellan offers the use of his lot on the corner of Riverside avenue and One Hundred and Bixteenth street, at the Committee's own terms.

Lawyer S. E. Church, of 115 Broadway, writes that he will allow the Committee the mae of his three lots on One Hundred and Thirteenth street near the Boulevard, providing the taxes and assessments on the same are pasid or remitted, for twe per cent on an assessed valuation. He adds as a condition that the Central Parkingus be left alone and promises to secure for Exposition purposes the use of five lots owned by one of his clients between Eighth assence and Merningside Fark.

The Bradley & Currier Company, of Hudson and Spring streets, proffers its three lots at One Hundred and Thirteenth street and Lenox assence at liberal terms.

Thomas Stevenson, of 1028 Boulevard, instances in his letter to Secretary Foord that the three lots on the corner of One Hundred and Essenth street and the Houlevard, owned by Mrs. Ruth A. Stevenson, may be obtained for a reasonable compensation.

J. C. Lyons offers six lots owned by him on One Hundred and Thirteeth street, between Fifth and Lenox assences, on "any fair and reasonable terms."

Lawyer Thomas Hooker, of 4 Warren atreet, wants $200 per year rent for each of his three lots at One Hundred and Fourteenth street and the Boulevard.

Br. Hooker represents several other property swars, who want from $200 to $1,000 annual rental for their lots.

CAN REGISTER TO-MORROW.

CITY VOTERS GET THEIR FIRST CHANCE AT 8 A. M.

The elector, native born or naturalized, who desires to express his choice for the candidates at the polls on Nov. 5, will be given a first opportunity to register as a voter to-morrow between the hours of 8 o'clock a. M. and 9 to the privilege of registra-

State one year, of the county four months and cher opportunities to do so on Wednesday, Oct.

16. Friday, Oct. 25, and Saturday, Oct. 26.
As this is an off year, the issue only being on minor State officials, representatives in the Legislature and county officers, the registration is not expected to reach that of last year, when a President and Governor were elected.

In Brooklyn the first day of registration is past and to-morrow will be the second. The last day in the City of Churches will be Oct. 22.

Constipation,

IF not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drasthe purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to sonatipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main at., Carlisie, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1807, and cheerfully recommend them to all in meed of a safe but effectual cathartic."

—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that mow I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."

HIS OWN GALLOWS

Braidmaker Fried Found Hanging by His Wife and Daughters.

Leopold Fried, forty-six years old, a German braid-maker, was found dead in his room at 32 Avenue A, at 12.15 this morning. He had died Fried was out of work, but his wife, who is midwife, and his two grown daughters, who are seamstremes, supported the household.

Last night the mother and daughters went up a concert at Amberg's Theatre. They had secured tickets for Fried, also, and he had remised to go, but when the time for starting ame he was not there and they went without nim, leaving his ticket on the table with the beesage that they would expect him to join room door.

He had rigged up a gallows by means of a pulley on the door and a sing of stout factory cord, and had hanged himself.

On the table beside the unused ticket for the concert was a note with this message scrawled in German. Forgive me for this. Curse me not and cry not for us. It had to come. It could not be helped,

Fried had been dead quite two hours.
It is supposed that I ried became despondent occars he was a dependent upon the women of his family.

His trade of braidmaking fell away about three months ago, and he has earned little or three months ago, and he has earned little or nothing since.
In vain the women told him to bear up, and that it would be all right.
Fried shook his head dejectedly and grew more melancholy every day.
It added rather than decreased his despondency to know that he himself was in good health, yet a helpless burden ou the household.

CAUGHT KISSING WOMEN ON THIRD AVE-NUE AND CLUBBED.

Joe Chow, a Chinese laundryman, who lives at 25 Pearl street, said $25 in the Harlem Police Court this morning for a tooliberal gratification of his desire to kiss and embrace every woman he het.

Joe got drunk in Yorkville yesterday afterneon and began to imitate the typical 'Melican' loafer by embracing and attempting to kiss several women on Third avenue, near Eighty-sixth street.

As he was leaning over one little lady endeavoring to kiss her. Policeman Harrison came behind him and administered a blow with his club that made Joe Chow straighten up as if he had received an electric shock, and he walked to to the police station with a panful limp, which

A WELL-DRESSED MAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN PROSPECT PARK.

Shortly before 10 o'clock this morning a wellressed man, about thirty-five years old, entered Prospect Park, Brocklyn, and sat on a ench near the main entrance. He had been there but a few minutes when he suddenly drew a revolver, and placing the muz-le near his right temple, fired.

A l'ark polleman burried to the spot and found the man lying on the ground un-Tourscious.

He called an ambulance and the man was taken to the Sency Hospital, where he now hes in a critical condition.

From papers found in his pocket, he is supposed to be A J. Campbled, a carpet dealer, of 533 Fulton street, Brooklyn. No cause can be at present assigned for the deed.

Certane's Second Week in Brooklyn. Owing to the unprecedented success of Co-rinne's engagement last week at Jacoba' Brooklyn Theatre, Mrs. Jourib Kimball, the mother and manager of the little star, leas decided to continue for another week. Her second week, which commences to-night, will be made notable by a sumptuous production of the London and New York success. "Monte Cristo, Jr.," in which Coriune assumes the role of Edmund Dantes. There is less bufforcery in it than in "Arcadia," but more and better music and more original costumes and mountings.

ROBBED WHILE CRAZY

The Belief of the Friends of Capt. Dennis Slattery.

[SPECIAL WO THE SYSPING WORLD.] ST. Louis, Mo., Oct. 7.-Capt. Dennis P. Slatery still lies in a critical condition at his home in Pine street, while all the town is talking of the mysterious circumstances attending yesterday morning's terrible assault upon him.

Friends of the millionaire believe implicitly in the story which he tells of his mental aberration and his entire irresponsibility during the period overed by his visit to Saloon-Keeper Kloster man's house and the events which followed. Capt. Slattery's over attention to business had ed to a sort of nervous exhaustion, and he was subject to spells of aberration to counteract which he always had medicine with him. He believes that he took an overdose of this

He believes that he took an overdose of this medicine at his office Saturday evenling and that his brain was completely overbalanced.

He declares he remembers nothing of Klosterman's house, and out of the whole affair he has brought nothing but a faint recollection of being hit with something.

Some of his most impulsive friends do not heatfaite to express their belief that advantage was taken of Capt. Slattery's condition to get him away, beat him and rob him of the valuable diamonds he always wore.

Mrs. Klosterman's story is that the Captain, minus his shoes, hat and coat, suddenly appeared in her room walking towards her bed soon after midnight.

Her husband was in the saloon below, and she gave the alarm which brought him and others to her assistance and led to the stranger's ejection.

to her assistance and led to the stranger's ejection.

Friends of the suffering man openly denounce this story and say they do not believe he was in the woman's room at all.

They declare that he was assaulted and robbed in the street, and that the man who beat him was seen to take his diamond shirt-stud away. Slattery was brought to the police station by Klosterman and one Alexander Hunt, a man of no occupation, who is supposed to have been the Caplain's chief assailant.

The wounded man's hat, overcoat and watch and some papers were brought to the station later, but not the diamonds.

Sintery's head and face were badly out and his bodly was bruised. He was covered with blood.

blood.

The injured man was formerly a sea captain. But in late years has accumulated a fortune in the grain and elevator business.

Edward Klosterman, the salcon-keeper; his bartender, Oliver Garneau; John Hickey and the man Hunt were arrested in connection with the affair.

It was Garneau who brought the Captain's clothes to the police.

AN APPROPRIATE INVOCATION.

Petition of an Englishman While Ascending the Eiffel Tower.

The worship of natural objects, such as trees, streams, rocks and mountain peaks is said to have been the earliest form of human religion.

Perhaps it was a sudden reversion to this primitive mode of devotion, says the Youth's Companion, which occurred in the case of a stout Englishman who chanced to occupy the same seat with the writer a few days ago in | in the habit of exchanging visits almost daily. one of the lifts, or elevators, which ply in the famous Eiffel tower at the Paris Exhibi-

the car seem fearfully small for the all-important task imposed upon them.

Many persons, while making the ascent for the first time, are quite overcome by their sensations and most anxiously wish that they were once more safely back upon terra firms. Something of this sort must have tailen to the experience of the florid Englishman before mentioned, for I saw the large beads of perspiration come out upon his hared brow, although the day was by no means warm.

His eyes seemed to be riveted on the wire cables as they played steadily over the grooved wheels, and presently I saw his lips moving rapidly as if giving utterance to seme brief but oft-repeated supplication.

It was perhaps scarcely polite to listen, Hevery likely thought himself the only English-speaking person present, yet an almost speaking person present, yet an almost breathless hush now prevailed inside the car. and I could not easily avoid overhearing what I confess, too, that in spirit at least for the moment i most fervently joined with him in his petition, for it was nothing less than a petition addressed to those wire ropes. He was saying over and over again, "Oh, be tough! Oh, be tough! Oh, be tough!"

The Facetions Hippokleptomaniae. "What were your sensations before you were cut down?" asked the rescuing party of the horse-thief who had been left for dead by the victim and his son.

None in particular. I only knew that the suspense was terrible; and as for the lynchere, there never was a pair of suspenders like them. Sweet Child.

A rattling fight took place at a well-known

The principals were Jack Nichols and Jim Costello, both of this city. Nichols weighed 143 pounds and Costello 145, oth men being splendidly developed athletes. Nichols punched for the heart with telling effect. Costello played for his opponent's neck. In the thirty-fourth round, Nichols landed a right-hand swing on Costello's jaw, which lifted him clear off his feet.

To the surprise of all, Costello staggered into position at the call of time, and Nichols went in to finish him.

He punched right and left, battering Costello all about the ring.

The police then appeared upon the scene, and the fight was stopped. No arrests were made.

The referce declared the battle a draw and divided the purse. Nichols punched for the heart with telling

There is a slight coolness between them now, because of a very curious conscidence. Yesterday one of the ladies went over to the house of her friend and invited her to come over and spend the afternoon.

"Bring your sewing," she said, "and we will have a good old fashioned visit."

The friend said she would be glad to come and would be over in a very lew minutes, and the other woman went home and sat down by an open window to await her friend's coming. The day was warm and peaceful, the window shady and she fell asleep.

When she awakened, the shades of night were falled fast, and some one was rapping vigorously at the door. She opened it in a dazed sort of a way and saw her neighbor.
